

If your business is still responding to customers in need.

Don't risk the health and safety of personnel or contractors who are still essential to help customers in their homes or at the roadside. The IAG Pandemic Response App allows you to screen customers via a simple, automated process to determine if they are showing signs of illness, or have potentially come into contact with anyone carrying Coronavirus. Based on the resulting risk profile, you can decide to dispatch the worker, re-schedule or send a replacement.
